

Tornadoes in Minnesota Leave 12 Dead

By PAT THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer
OUTING, Minn. (AP) — At least eight tornadoes clawed through farms, forests and lake-side resorts in northern Minnesota late Wednesday. The death toll was estimated at more than 12. Hundreds were injured.

There were fears the death toll might rise because of fishermen unaccounted for on many lakes.

One of the worst-hit spots was this resort community, a town of 300 that triples in size each summer as vacationers flock to area lakes.

One twister shredded homes and summer cottages on Roosevelt Lake, just outside Outing.

"It's a mess, it's plain leveled," said a sheriff's deputy who surveyed the lakeside area.

Jane Tyler, 17, of Camanche, Iowa, staying at a resort on Roosevelt Lake, said: "We heard a whistling sound and lay down on the floor of the cabin. The bed started jumping up and down. All of a sudden we were under a pile of wood."

At least four of the known dead were vacationers at a retreat operated by the Bethany Fellowship, a Minneapolis church group. The sheriff's office said that in the vicinity of Outing there were "seven or eight dead and three known missing."

Two more victims died in the Island Lake area, north of Duluth, at the northeastern tip of a 100-mile path ripped by the twisters.

National Guardsmen sealed off the heavily hit areas around Outing and nearby Emily.

The Weather Bureau said it was the worst loss of life from tornadoes in history for the northern Minnesota area.

The twisters were spawned in black thunderclouds that followed a day of stifling heat and high humidity.

The Weather Bureau estimated that at least eight wind funnels were involved. Also hard-hit were the Hibbing, Floodwood and Duluth regions.

Ten persons were brought to hospitals in the Hibbing-Chisholm-Virginia area. Another six were taken to hospitals in Duluth.

Ralph S. Moore, a power company employee staying at Island Lake near Duluth, said the storm hit with a "pure white curtain of wind-driven rain."

It took two hours to clear a path through fallen trees for ambulances to reach the scene.

Shattered trees were piled and twisted like wooden matches in the Outing area, a blend of thick forests, lakes and small farms.

ABM Passes Senate Test by One Vote

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — After all the days of technical testimony, the weeks of debate, it was the courtship of Margaret Chase Smith which shaped the crucial hours of the Senate's Safeguard battle.

It made no difference that the silver-haired senator from Maine voted with one set of suitors against the administration missile defense plan, then switched sides in a second vote. The opposition lost both, and the administration program was approved by the one-vote margin President Nixon himself had forecast as a possibility some five months ago.

Sen. Smith, senior Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee, came to the climactic session with an amendment designed to block all spending for the Safeguard system.

She said she had no confidence in it, and couldn't justify spending money for research.

Advocates of the system were certain that amendment would be defeated. And they forecast that when it was, Mrs. Smith would vote against the major obstacle to the system, an amendment to bar deployment but permit continued research and testing of Safeguard.

They were right, twice. But they had some anxious moments.

At the outset, advocates and foes of Safeguard took turns praising Mrs. Smith.

But Safeguard proponents, who had discounted her original amendment, reacted with concern when Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., proposed blending it with the legislation which was the chief vehicle of Safeguard foes.

Temperatures in State to Get Warmer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Slightly warmer temperatures and fair skies are anticipated through Friday, the U.S. Weather Bureau said today.

Most temperatures Wednesday were some three to six degrees higher than the previous day. The high was 95 at Texarkana.

High pressure continues to be the dominate weather producer over the state. A ridge is now centered over the Virginias and extends westward into Texas.

A cold front moving through the midwestern plains is producing violent weather in the north central states. As the front encounters the dominate high over Arkansas, its progress will be slowed.

By Friday the front is expected to become stationary across southern Missouri and become diffused by Saturday.

Although a trigger mechanism will be nearby and could produce isolated showers in extreme north Arkansas, the current dry spell will remain. Moist air is creeping into the state from the south but the slow return of moisture will allow fair skies to continue for another day or two.

Saturday, moisture should be sufficient to produce isolated afternoon showers. Skies will be mostly sunny and hot temperatures will prevail.

Low tonight is expected to be in the 60s to 70s. Overnight lows included 59 at Fayetteville, 61 at Harrison, 62 at Little Rock, 64 at Fort Smith, 65 at El Dorado and Jonesboro, 66 at Memphis and Pine Bluff and 68 at Texarkana.

No rainfall was recorded during the 24-hour period ended at 7 a.m. today.

Projects in Chicago Closed by Negroes

CHICAGO (AP) — A coalition of black organizations demanding admission of 10,000 Negroes to building trades unions has forced the shutdown in the last two weeks of more than $85 million worth of Chicago construction projects.

More than 1,200 construction workers on 23 projects on the South Side have been idled by demonstrations sponsored by the Coalition for United Community Action, an organization representing 61 neighborhood groups.

A spokesman for the coalition said the Chicago Building Trades Council and contractors "are going to include us in the building unions or they're not going to build in our community."

The builders' association contends that half the idled workers are black. All the affected projects are in Negro areas.

Thomas J. Murray, council president, said, "There isn't room for 10,000 trainees in the jurisdiction of the Chicago Building Trades Council. Employers can't take that many—we'd have to go to the government for help."

Two projects were shut down Wednesday when talks between coalition leaders and builders ended with a walkout by the black representatives after their demand for separate meetings with union officials and contractors was rejected.

The projects were at Michael Reese Hospital and a housing development.

Nixon Plans Big Dinner for Moon Men

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — White House planning is splendiferous for the Apollo 11 astronauts dinner in Los Angeles with a guest list of 1,500 including the 50 governors, diplomats, Charles Lindbergh and Jack Benny.

The black tie dinner Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Century Plaza Hotel will be 10 times anything ever held at the White House. No one knows yet how much it will cost, but President Nixon is springing for the check.

Lunar mission astronauts Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin and Michael Collins will find their way to the table through tickertape parades in New York and Chicago. They get out of quarantine Monday.

Invitations, placecards, the menu, entertainment have been decided by the White House social and protocol staffs. But the hotel, a favorite with Nixon aides, will produce the dinner, furnishing the china, crystal

DOESN'T THINK (from page one)

Neither would have eliminated any of the $759.1 million earmarked for the ABM in the $20 billion military procurement authorization bill.

The first, offered by Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, failed on a 50-50 tie. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew cast a 51st but unnecessary negative vote.

Mrs. Smith's proposal was to bar any further spending except for components such as radars and computers.

Then the Senate voted 51-49 against the amendment by Sens. Cooper and Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., who have led the year-long fight against ABM. Their proposal would have limited the Safeguard program to research and development with no deployment or site acquisition.

Sens. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., and John J. Williams, R-Del., ended their silence on the ABM to join the administration in opposing the amendments.

A White House spokesman said after the voting that President Nixon "is very pleased, of course." But he said no statement would be issued.

The Senate is the big test for the ABM program, since the House is considered to have a substantial majority favoring Safeguard.

Although Wednesday's voting was billed as the crucial test for ABM, another proposed compromise was scheduled for a vote today in the Senate. Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., sponsored the amendment to deploy ABM computers and radars—but not missiles.

Both sides predicted the McIntyre amendment would fall by a considerable margin.

Other ABM amendments are possible, but none is expected.

Cooper and Hart, who said they would renew their battle later this year on the defense appropriations bill, conceded their chances would diminish after Wednesday's votes.

"Today was the chief decision," Cooper said later. "I think we will have trouble from here."

Some ABM foes, meanwhile, expressed the hope that the debate would mark the start of a new effort to scrutinize the government's military spending.

"This new determination marks a victory for our system of government that may well be remembered long after the ABM debate is forgotten," said Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill.

"I believe that this is but the beginning of a continuing exercise of its constitutional responsibility by the Senate with respect to the arms race," commented Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said.

Before the voting, ABM proponents claimed they would defeat the Cooper-Hart amendment 51 to 49—as they did. Opponents thought they had 50 votes, until Mrs. Smith revealed she was so opposed to the Safeguard system she would even vote against research for it.

As a result, much of the day was spent in fashioning a proposal acceptable to Mrs. Smith and to the Cooper-Hart forces.

Accused Coed Slayer Asks for Attorney

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — John N. Collins, accused of slaying a pretty coed schoolmate, today asked the state to appoint attorneys to defend him against the first-degree murder charge he faces.

"To have him properly defended, we feel we ought to enlist the financial help of the county," Hale P. Saph III, an attorney for Collins mother, told the court.

Collins is accused of strangling to death an 18-year-old Eastern Michigan University freshman, Karen Sue Belne-man. His preliminary examination on the charge was adjourned until Aug. 14.

and tableware as well.

The White House asked former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Lyndon B. Johnson to be there. Truman sent his regrets for health reasons. Johnson said he wouldn't come because his wife, Lady Bird, would be out of the country visiting friends. President John Kennedy's widow, Mrs. Jacqueline Onassis also sent regrets.

The guest list is intended to reflect a cross section of America with a heavy dose of congressmen and aviation pioneers included.

The menu: salmon poached in champagne and garnished with prawns, oysters and truffles; fillet of beef, artichokes, baby carrots, California bibb lettuce salad with mixed cheeses, and an ice cream dessert called "Claire de Lune (moonlight)."

Casualties in War Up Slightly

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command reported today that 139 Americans were killed in Vietnam last week, roughly a 25 per cent increase over two weeks ago when the death toll fell to a low mark of 110.

It marked the fifth straight week that American battlefield deaths were below the 200 mark and the 12th consecutive week that South Vietnamese battlefield deaths exceeded those of U.S. forces.

The weekly casualty figures reflected the lull in sustained ground fighting now in its eighth week, a cutback in large-scale U.S. operations and a gradual shifting of more fighting to South Vietnamese forces.

South Vietnamese battlefield deaths last week were reported as 276 troops killed, 14 fewer than were killed the previous week.

Allied headquarters said in its weekly casualty summary that 2,025 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers were killed during the seven-day period ending at midnight last Saturday. This compared to 2,079 enemy claimed killed two weeks ago.

The U.S. Command said 1,110 Americans were wounded in the period, 54 more than two weeks ago.

The South Vietnamese reported 545 wounded, compared with 831 the week before.

The decrease in American casualties during the current battlefield lull reduced the weekly average of Americans killed this year to 228. A total of 7,055 U.S. troops have been reported killed so far this year. A U.S. spokesman said some of the increase in American dead last week apparently was due to a rash of helicopter losses.

"The general level of activity was about the same," the spokesman said. "That much variation in battle deaths is fairly common."

closed bathroom door sheltering Aphrodite.

At first I was haunted by fears that Aphrodite might be in a family way and I'd have to act as an impromptu midwife for a rabbit. Fortunately, she turned out to be a chaste maiden, and so I haven't had to tell her to go and never darken my bathroom door again.

Once a week I take Aphrodite for a stroll on the apartment lawn below. When it's time to return, whooping neighborhood kids help me recapture her in Manhattan's only regular one-rabbit roundup.

My vegetable bill has tripled. Each morning at 5 o'clock Aphrodite gets hungry and starts thumping on the tin bathroom waste basket—her breakfast signal.

The other evening the neighbor beneath us rapped at my door.

"If you must practice on your bongo drum in the bathroom," he said politely, "couldn't you do it a bit later in the day?"

"That's not a bongo drum," I replied embarrassed. "That's just Aphrodite, our red-eyed white rabbit."

Looking at me oddly as he began backing away, the neighbor said: "Well, old chap, I'm afraid if you start keeping pink elephants in your bathroom,

DOYLE A. SMITTLE

Doyle A. Smittle received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in horticulture on June 7, from the University of Maryland, College Park, Maryland. He is now assistant professor of horticulture at Washington State University, Pullman, Wa.

Dr. Smittle's research projects at Washington University are concerned with vegetable crops in the Columbia Basin area. He is trying to introduce sweet potatoes into the area in addition to his work with Irish potatoes, corn and other crops.

He graduated from Bodcaw High School and received his B.S. and M.S. degrees from the University of Arkansas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Smittle of Bodcaw. His wife, Dorothy, is the former Dorothy Dorman.

And I'm afraid that if Tracy doesn't come home soon her welcome home dish, when she does return, will be a big steaming plate of hasenpfeffer, once known as Aphrodite.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

A SOUTHERN GIRL SPEAKS OUT

Dear Helen: My only purpose in writing this letter is to defend my section of the country (South Carolina). I get so tired of hearing from the north how prejudiced we southerners are. Sure there are rigid segregationists in the south, but the north has just as many. And lots of us down here are NOT! In the 15 years I have been in the south, I have never heard a prejudiced word spoken in my home. My high school will have a Negro senior class president next year. Since we have a white majority at our school, it's obvious he received white votes. They elected the fellow they considered the best man, neither because nor in spite of his color.

A lot of our school leaders are black and some are among my closest friends. We attend clubs and church together. I have never seen a Negro refused entrance to any place in town, though I know these things happen. The sad thing is that southerners have been told so often that they are prejudiced that they begin to act accordingly. The only racial trouble we know here is what we learn in newspapers and on TV.

I hope you will print my letter because I have wanted to say this for a long time. Perhaps it will alleviate a little bitterness on all sides. However the rest of the world thinks, I will continue to love the south and ALL PEOPLE who work together to make it what it is—both blacks and whites. I will continue to work for civil rights and support my country in progressive legislation.

I will try to be open-minded toward those who believe that everyone in the south is prejudiced, for they are misinformed, and as bigoted in their way as the most radical racist. Thank you for hearing me out.—SICK OF IGNORANT GENERALIZATIONS

Dear Helen: Instead of all the stories about race fights, why don't they tell about the many places where integration is so much a part of the scene that people don't even see the difference in skins?

I live in a middle class suburb in California. The people here are mostly office workers, teachers, junior executives, young doctors, etc. We have chosen this area because we want to bring up our children in the new atmosphere. When we move to a larger home, perhaps a more expensive one, as my husband advances in his work, we will insist that it, too, is in an integrated area.

I'm writing this letter while watching about ten children play in our backyard swimming pool. They range from almond-eyed to black to bronze to blonde, and I probably would never have mentioned the difference (or thought of it) except that I'm trying to make a point.

Why can't we hear from more of your readers who have proved integration works, but have done it so quietly that it isn't "news"?—YOUNG WIFE

Dear Wife and SOIG: Thank you both for your excellent letters. We should have more of them, for the "other side" has been publicized quite enough!—H.

Dear Helen: My 21-year-old best girl friend has moved into an apartment with a 35-year-old married man. She isn't the type, Helen. She comes from a fine family, has dated nice guys and always said she would settle for nothing but marriage.

Then along came this weird fellow who I must admit is fascinating, with his talk of psychics, reincarnation, etc. He left his wife and children because the "stars" told him to, and the stars evidently suggested this apartment arrangement, too.

My friend is bound to be hurt, but I can't reach her. She says she's "living" for the first time. What can I do?—WORRIED

Dear Worried: You can do nothing but hope that the stars give, stark reality will take away. This affair can't last long, so stand by to pick up the pieces.—H.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

MRS. ROBERT EARL MITCHELL

Miss Donna Kay Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E.H. Davis of San Francisco, Calif., and Jonesboro, Ark., respectively, was married to Robert Earl Mitchell of Kansas City, Mo., son of Mr. and Mrs. R.H. Mitchell of Hope, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday, August 2.

The double-ring ceremony was performed in the chapel of the First United Methodist Church of Jonesboro with the Rev. Worth A. Gibson officiating. Vows were exchanged before a large fan-shaped white arrangement of glads, Fuji mums, and pom clusters. Candles and palms were on either side. Music was provided by Mrs. Lindel Hardin, who sang "One Alone," and Mrs. Fred Trout, accompanist.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Dana R. Davis of Osceola. She wore a white, floor-length A-line crepe dress with a semifitted bodice. Crystals were caught in a generous expanse of scalloped Venise lace which hung from the bodice. Matching scalloped lace covered the bottom of the dress and was used to edge the train. The floor-length mantilla also was applied with Venise lace. She carried a nosegay of lily of the valley, baby's breath, and pale pink sweetheart roses.

Miss Ann Mitchell of Hope, sister of the groom, was the bride's only attendant. Her floor-length gown was pale pink peau de sole. It featured elbow-length sleeves, a low scooped neck, and was caught at the Empire waist by a band of dusty rose. Her headpiece was a Dior bow and tulle, and she carried a single pink cymbidium orchid tied with streamers.

R.H. Mitchell served his son as best man. Albert Weisenberger of Dallas and Robert Head of Heber Springs ushered.

Mrs. Davis, mother of the bride, wore a dress of ivory crepe with a turquoise whimsy and beige accessories. Her corsage was a pink glamelia.

The mother of the groom, Mrs. Mitchell, wore an A-line lime linen dress trimmed with Alencon lace, a green whimsy and beige accessories. Her corsage was a white glamelia.

After the wedding, a reception was held in the home of the bride's mother. The serving table was covered with pink and white that was caught up in swags of pink tulle tied with white ribbons.

Champagne punch was served at the silver punch bowl by Mrs. Lowell Philp. The three-tiered wedding cake was touched with fresh, pink sweetheart roses. It was cut by Miss Rhett Moore.

Assisting were Mrs. Bob Berry, Miss Vicki Mizell and Miss Denise Mizell, cousins of the bride, Miss Margaret Osolnack presided at the bride's book. The table where the guests registered was covered in pale pink damask and centered with a memory candle.

Hospitality was extended by Miss Katie Richards, aunt of

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Violence may be out for television this year, but there is plenty of deadly earnest action behind the scenes as the three networks' annual war games get closer.

The generals are the network programming experts. The foot soldiers are the programs—old, new and specials. The prize is the viewer.

For instance, NBC's highly touted "Bill Cosby Show," a half-hour situation comedy, will debut at 8:30 (EDT) on Sept. 14. CBS does not start rolling in its new shows until the following week, so it is not just one of those coincidences that the network has scheduled a Danny Thomas special, "Make Room for Granddaddy," in direct conflict. An hour show, it will have a half-hour headstart on Bill Thomas specials, particularly those reuniting the "Make Room for Daddy" cast, have proved potent audience attractors.

On Sept. 22, NBC will toss a programming curve that may have already put some gray hairs among the blonde locks of two important women stars. Lana Turner's expensive ABC vehicle, "The Survivors" debuts at 9 p.m. and Doris Day's CBS show arrives a half-hour later with a critical episode that changes the format and locale of the series. NBC has chosen those minutes in which to spot the season's first Bob Hope special, one with almost two dozen top comedians. Hope specials regularly top the Nielsen charts.

Andy Williams' people, working on his new NBC variety hour Saturday night opposite CBS' Jackie Gleason, worry that Gleason will open with a few of his "Honeydoers" hours, the most popular of his shows. Gleason, in fact, will start his season on Sept. 27 with one of these book musicals.

All three networks also practice something called "front-loading" early in the season when they use their biggest, most star-studded movies in the nightly two-hour schedule blocks in attempts to keep the fickle audience from wandering to rival channels.

NBC has long planned to premiere its fall shows the week of Sept. 14, and CBS will kick off during the following week. ABC, with the most new shows, will start some shows during CBS' week, and others during CBS' week. There is a theory, never really proven, that the network with a head start has some slight advantage in the ratings race.

And then there are the viewers. How do they like this struggle for their attention? They will complain as usual because the networks can't arrange things so they don't have to make painful decisions.

Marichal Serves Up Four Homers

By HERSCHEL NISSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Over the years, Juan Marichal has stopped many a losing streak for the San Francisco Giants. Now he'd like to stop one for Juan Marichal.

The brilliant right-hander served up four home run balls to the Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday and went down to a 5-4 setback, his fourth consecutive defeat—most in his career.

The latest loss left Marichal with a 13-8 record and dropped the Giants from first to third place in the hectic National League West. They trail Cincinnati by eight percentage points and Atlanta by three.

Despite his troubles—he hasn't won since July 19—Marichal thinks he can be a 20-game winner for the sixth time in seven years.

"We have two months ahead of us and I think I can do it," he said. "I'm gonna try to do it. I think I've been throwing the ball good."

But the four straight losses have left him somewhat shaken. "I never lost four in a row," he said. "Never in my life. Never."

While the Giants' slip was showing, Cincinnati moved back into the lead with a 3-2 victory over the New York Mets and Atlanta surged into second by downing Montreal 6-3. Elsewhere, the Chicago Cubs shaded Houston 5-4, San Diego clipped St. Louis 3-2 and Los Angeles stopped Pittsburgh 7-5.

In the American League, Minnesota topped Detroit 3-1, Oakland took Cleveland 6-4 in 11 innings, Baltimore edged Kansas City 2-1, Seattle outlasted Boston 6-5 in 10 innings, Washington squeaked by the Chicago White Sox 4-3 and the New York Yankees beat California 3-1.

If Marichal wants to know what went wrong Wednesday night, all he has to do is ask Johnny Callison, who hammered two of the Phils' homers, his 12th and 13th, both solo shots.

"I hit two inside fast balls," Callison said, "but Marichal did hang some curve balls against the right-handed hitters, which he usually doesn't do."

Cookie Rojas, No. 3, and Don Money, No. 5, both righty swingers, were the other homer-hitters. Willie McCovey slammed No. 34 for the Giants.

Still, Callison doesn't seem fletched. He stays out there and battles you," Callison said. "He knows how to pitch and he throws strikes. The second time up I was looking for the screwball, because it's the toughest pitch to hit off him, but I guess he was mad after I hit the first homer and he came back with another inside fast ball. He got me out with the same pitches in San Francisco."

The Giants staked Marichal to a 2-0 lead in the first on Ron Hunt's single, Willie Mays' run-scoring double and a single by McCovey. As Hunt crossed the plate, he was stunted in the head by the relay from Rojas and suffered a concussion. He was hospitalized overnight for observation.

Rojas and Callison tied it in the bottom of the inning and it stayed that way until Callison homered again leading off the fourth. One out later, Larry Hise reached safely on a throwing error by third baseman Tito Fuentes and Money homered into the upper left field stands—his first in three months.

The victory went to Rick Wise, 9-9, although he needed help from Billy Champion in the eighth.

Johnny Bench unloaded a tape-measure homer in the seventh inning to power the Reds past the Mets. Jim Merritt, 11-5, yielded two runs and four hits in the first inning but blanked the Mets on six hits the rest of the way. Pete Rose socked a double and two triples for the winners. Tony Gonzalez cracked a two-run homer, Orlando Cepeda drove in two runs with a pair of doubles and Phil Niekro became the NL's first 16-game winner in the Braves' third straight triumph over the Expos.

Niekro's single and Gonzalez' ninth homer broke a scoreless tie in the sixth and Cepeda doubled runs across in the sixth and eighth. Coco Laboy hit a two-run homer for Montreal in the seventh and Rusty Staub connected in the ninth.

Three unearned runs helped the Cubs beat the Astros for their seventh straight win. Jesus Alou, who hit a two-run homer earlier, put Houston ahead 4-3 in the fifth with an in-field grounder after Johnny Edwards tripled.

But the Cubs won it—and opened up an 8½-game bulge over the Mets in the NL East—in the seventh. Randy Hundley singled, Jim Hickman, who stole home earlier and also knocked in a run with a fly ball, forced him. With two out, pinch hitter Willie Smith walked. Don Kessinger singled to center, scoring Hickman with the tying run, and pinch runner Nate Oliver raced home from first when the ball got through Jim Wynn.

Ed Spiezio turned on his former St. Louis teammates with a leadoff homer in the ninth inning that snapped the Padres' nine-game losing streak. Al Ferrera also homered for San Diego.

Andy Kinsco and Bill Sudakis homered in the fourth inning and Don Sutton won for the first time since July 14 as the Dodgers outslug Pittsburgh. Willie Stargell, Al Oliver and Jose Pagan connected for the Pirates.

Minnesota remained three games in front of the A's with Jim Perry's three-hitter setting down the Tigers.

Tony Oliva drove in his 499th and 500th career runs with a double and sacrifice fly while Perry won his 13th game, besting Mickey Lolich.

Frank Howard unloaded a two-run homer in the eighth inning and then Paul Casanova delivered a pinch homer in the ninth that broke a tie and got Washington past Chicago.

Howard's shot was his 36th of the season and gave the crowd of 25,520 at Milwaukee County Stadium something to talk about. It was only the second defeat for the White Sox in eight transplanted games at Milwaukee this season. Walt Williams homered for Chicago.

Wayne Comer and Gerry McNertney cracked 10th inning doubles that broke a tie and gave Seattle its victory over Boston. The Red Sox had tied it on Syd O'Brien's two-out pinch single in the bottom of the ninth. Carl Yastrzemski had three hits and Reggie Smith and Mike Andrews both homered for Boston.

Bobby Murcer cracked three hits including his second homer in as many days, leading the Yankees past California. Jim Spencer homered for the Angels.

Giants' Miracle of Cogan's Bluff in 1951, but they overlook 1965."

In 1951, Bobby Thomson hit a last inning homer to beat the Dodgers in the National League playoff.

Best Selling Sex Novel Is Big Hoax

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Three years ago, a Long Island newspaper columnist and 24 friends set out to write a bad sex novel in an elaborate hoax to prove that a book doesn't have to be good for the American public to buy a lot of copies.

They succeeded. "Naked Came the Stranger," written under the collective pseudonym of "Penelope Ashe," has already sold nearly 20,000 copies at $5.95 each, paperback rights have been sold and 18 movie companies are interested in the film rights.

The hoax was made public Wednesday by Mike McGrady, a stocky, cigar-smoking columnist for Newsday, who conceived the idea in the spring of 1966.

"I was really fed up with people like Harold Robbins and Jacqueline Susann," he said. "I saw the writing that was being accepted and it seemed absurd."

On June 13, 1966, he circulated copies of a four-page story outline to 100 persons, most of them editors and writers at Newsday. Twenty-four accepted the invitation, including five women and Gene Goltz, who won a Pulitzer Prize in 1965 with the Houston Post and shared in another Pulitzer last year at the Detroit Free Press.

"True excellence in writing, will be blue-pencilled into oblivion," McGrady warned. "There will be an unremitting emphasis on sex."

His basic story line centered on the sexual exploits of one Gillian Blake, the female half of "The Billy & Gilly Show," a radio program featuring "America's sweethearts of the air."

McGrady set the location in "King's Neck, Long Island," a "steaming suburban jungle within sight of Manhattan's brightest lights," and asked each author to write one chapter, without knowing what the others were doing.

The book was written in three weeks and the 35-year-old columnist was quite pleased with the results.

"Everyone handed in a chapter and most were bad enough to merit consideration. They had to be very commercial and very sexy; the kind of writing one has come to expect of Jacqueline Susann ('Valley of the Dolls'), 'The Love Machine' over the years," McGrady said. "Some of the chapters were too good and had to be sent back for revisions."

The authors sometimes had problems in uniformly describing the characters.

"Four chapters have described Gillian's body in terms of alabaster; two have insisted she is heavily tanned," McGrady noted in one style memo to his cohorts. "For future reference: She will be lightly tanned during the summer months. The word alabaster will be appropriate beginning mid-way through November."

Because of other commitments, including a reporting assignment in Vietnam, McGrady finished editing only half the book. He then turned it over to fellow conspirator and Newsday columnist, Harvey Aronson, 40, who finished the last half.

In early 1968, both began putting the finishing touches on the book. Last fall McGrady had his sister-in-law, Billie Young, a Long Island housewife with six children, pose as Penelope Ashe and approach a publisher with the manuscript. Billie also is a writer.

Lyle Stuart of Lyle Stuart, Inc., liked the book, even before they filled him in on the hoax, and contracted to publish it.

In the meantime, Billie has been appearing on talk shows as Penelope to boost book sales, sporting cliches such as, "A writer's got to impale his guts on the typewriter."

Since they have to split up the sales money equally the authors will not get rich. They don't expect to receive more than $4,000 each.

They're also thinking of doing a sequel.

"I wanted to call it 'Son of Naked Came the Stranger,'" Aronson said, "but Mike came up with a better one: 'Stranger than Naked.'"

71-8. The special circumstances under which the state could be a party defendant in its own courts would be on grounds of breach of contract or if some other law provided that the state could be taken to court.

Richard S. Arnold authored a section to give the legislature authority to set other conditions under which the state could be a party defendant in a legal action.

By a vote of 72-5, the convention approved a proposal to let the legislature call itself into a special session of not more than 30 days. The governor also would retain the right to call a special session.

The convention also approved a measure to prohibit state employees and officials from engaging in activity that may involve a conflict of interest with their state position.

The vote was 67-9 on the measure, which contained a provision that the legislature will enact a comprehensive code of ethics for all appointed

Sixteen girls participated in a Special 4-H Project group, according to Mrs. Alphonso T. Denham, associate extension home economist. This project group was for one week and the five and elected officials and all employees of the state and its subdivisions.

The legislature enacted such a code this year, Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, who has talked in favor of such a code, vetoed the one developed by the legislature.

projects included papier mache jewelry, paper back gold foil, drip candles, crepe paper twine, and plaster of paris wall plaques.

The girls that participated in the project group were: Gwendolyn Edwards, Carolyn Hickles, Linder Sue Hill, Reva Williams, Shurolite Hickles, Harriet Hickles, Karen Bishop, Brenda Flenory, Beatrice Flenory, Joann Thomas, Rosetta Frenzell, Mary Walton, Shirley Walton, Bernice Flenory, Mary L. # Survives in Junior Girls Golf Meet

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Pam Spikes of Crossett was eliminated but Martha Jett of Little Rock survived Wednesday in the U.S. Golf Association's junior girls golf tournament.

Miss Spikes lost 4 and 3 to Janet Ann Coles of Aptos, Calif., in the first round.

Miss Jett won in the first round 4 and 3 over Diane Lukken of Tulsa, Okla., and won again in the second round 3 and 2 over Susie Long of Dallas.

Lovell Heads Apollo 13 Crew in 1970

By PAUL REGER
AP Aerospace Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The first American in space and the man who has spent the most time there will command moon-landing flights in 1970, the space agency says.

Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr., who has more space hours than any other astronaut, will command the Apollo 13 flight to the moon scheduled for next March, the agency announced Wednesday.

Navy Capt. Alan B. Shepard Jr., who put America into space with a 15-minute flight in 1961 and hasn't flown since, will command the Apollo 14 moon landing scheduled for next July.

Space rookies fill in the balance of both crews.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Thomas P. Mattingly II, 33, and civilian Fred W. Haise Jr., 35, will fly with Lovell on Apollo 13.

With Shepard on Apollo 14 will be Air Force Capt. Stuart A. Roosa, 35, and Navy Cmdr. Edgar D. Mitchell, 38.

The Apollo 12 crew had already been named. All Navy, it is commanded by Capt. Charles Conrad and includes Cmdrs. Richard L. Gordon and Alan L. Bean. Apollo 12 is scheduled for November.

Lovell's flight will be to the mysterious lunar highlands area called Fra Mauro, just south of the moon's equator and just west of center. This will be the first attempt to land in the mountains of the moon.

Shepard and his crew are scheduled to land in Censorinus, a crater just east of the Sea of Tranquility landing site of Apollo 11.

Apollo 12's destination is the Ocean of Storms, in the western part of the moon.

Shepard's selection climaxes a battle to overcome an ear ailment that threatened to ground him permanently.

The 45-year-old astronaut flew into space for 15 minutes in 1961, riding a Mercury capsule atop a Redstone rocket 116 miles over the Atlantic.

Just as the Gemini program was beginning, he was beset by an inner ear ailment that caused nausea and dizziness. Flight surgeons grounded him and he started a six-year series of medical treatments.

He underwent surgery last May in an operation that was to either put him in the air or clip his wings for good. It was a success and Shepard was cleared to fly.

Lovell, 41, flew 14 days with astronaut Frank Borman on Gemini 7 in 1965. Last December, he, Borman and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders became the first men to orbit the moon on the eight-day flight of Apollo 8. Lovell also was commander of the four-day Gemini 12 flight in 1966 with Edwin A. Aldrin Jr.

Nixon Going on With Plan for Employment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration intends to put into effect a controversial equal employment plan despite a high government official's opinion that it violates civil rights law.

Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz brusquely rejected Wednesday the opinion of U.S. Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats that the job equality plan would set up illegal racial hiring quotas for construction workers.

"His opinion was not solicited by the Labor Department," Shultz said, in effect suggesting that Staats' mind his own business.

"The comptroller general is the agent of Congress, not a part of the executive branch," said Shultz, who indicated he had President Nixon's backing.

Shultz said the Labor Department will probably award Friday the first federal construction contract requiring contractors to employ a specific number of Negroes and other minority group members.

Staats called it a "quota" system. Shultz said it would merely set a "range" for goals of employing more minority group workers.

The Labor Department program is called the "Philadelphia Plan" because it affects only that area in an effort to improve what Shultz has called "the deplorable low rate" of minority employment among higher paid construction trades there.

Similar equal employment plans will be extended to other cities later, Shultz has said.

Labor Department Solicitor Laurence Silberman conceded that the opinion of the comptroller general, who audits government contracts as head of the General Accounting Office, would cause some difficulties and perhaps lead to a lawsuit.

Shultz and Silberman said they would welcome a suit to "clear the air."

HOPE NEWSPAPER HISTORY:
The 1929 consolidation joined the two principal newspaper lines dating back to within five years of the newspaper's incorporation in 1875.
1899 — Star of Hope founded as a weekly by Claude Mc-Corkle; converted to an evening daily by his son, Ed. McCorkle, publishing until the 1929 consolidation.

The position line:
1880 — Hope News founded by Lowry Brothers.

1883 — Sold to Withers & Johnson, name changed to Hope Telegraph.

1883 — Later in same year resold to Claude McCorkle and renamed Hope Mercury.
1884 — Sold to James H. Betts, who named it Hope Gazette, under which name it was published continuously until 1922, published by Betts, J.L. Tullis, and Col. W.W.
Folsom the last-named dying in 1916.

1916 — Purkins & Gates bought the weekly Gazette and made it a companion paper to their new daily, Arkansas Evening Herald
— but both papers suspended in 1922.

1926 — Plant was revived by Curtis Cannon as the weekly
Hempstead County Review.

1927 — Cannon sold plant to D.A. Gean, who established the morning Hope Daily Press.

1929 — C. E. Palmer and A.H.
Washburn consolidated The Star and the Press as Hope Star, with Palmer as president and Washburn secretary-treasurer.

1957 — Following Mr. Palmer's death Mrs. Palmer became president.

1969 — With Mrs. Palmer's retirement from Star Publishing Co. Washburn became 76 per cent owner and president — balance 24 per cent being held by Texarkana Newspapers, Inc.

No Special Virtues In Wheat Germ Oil

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—I have heard that the use of meat tenderizer may soften the lining of one's stomach. Is this true?

A—No, because the protein-softening enzyme works only on dead tissue and, besides, it is completely destroyed by cooking.

Q—Where can I buy wheat germ oil? What are its virtues?

A—It is usually found in food fad stores where a great fuss is made over its vitamin E content. It has no special virtues but, like corn oil and other vegetable oils, it is a good source of unsaturated fatty acids.

Q—I love to eat roasted sunflower seeds. Will they increase my cholesterol level? Do they contain protein and/or vitamin A? How many calories do they contain?

A—Since these seeds contain predominantly unsaturated fatty acids, they will not raise your cholesterol level. A 100-gram portion (3.3 ounces) contains 45 grams of protein, 50 international units of vitamin A, 1.96 mg. of thiamine, 5.4 mg.
of niacin, 0.23 mg. of riboflavin and 339 calories.

Q—I love to eat raw potatoes. Could they do me any harm?

A—Not if you chew them well. Avoid eating the eyes or any part that has turned black as this will cause solanin poisoning.

Q—I have heard that too much root beer is bad for a person. How much is too much and how does it hurt
you?

A—Too much of anything can be harmful but I know of no special hazards connected with root beer. After two or three 12-ounce cans at one sitting, the sugar content might make you sick, just as too much cake or candy would.

Q—If a person drinks a raw egg beaten up in milk

Opening lead—♥ 3

The student took his ace of hearts and returned the deuce. South was tempted to finesse the jack but decided to resist this temptation and to get the lead immediately.
Then he knocked out East's ace of clubs. The defense took two more heart tricks but South wound up with two spades, one heart, one diamond, five clubs and his contract.

"I'm glad I didn't try the heart finesse," said South.
"West would have taken the trick with his queen and, if he shifted to a diamond, I would have been out of luck."

The Professor, who had been watching, remarked.
"It certainly was a fine decision. On the other hand, my pupil had a chance to beat you by executing a coup at trick two. He could have led his king of diamonds and knocked out dummy's ace. Later on, he would have held off twice in clubs. South would make three diamond tricks instead of one but only two club tricks instead of five for an eight-trick total.

Q—The bidding has been:

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠
Pass 2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠
Pass 4 ♠ Pass ?

You, South, hold:

What do you do now?
A—Bid five spades. Your partner surely holds three spades to the queen or maybe queen-jack and a good six-card club suit. Your five-spade bid tells him to bid six if he can handle the second heart lead.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of bidding two clubs, your partner has raised your

By DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The company shooting "The Liberation of Lord Byron Jones" filmed some of the exteriors in Humboldt, Tenn. They report, with an air of resignation, that nothing much has changed in some southern towns.

Anthony Zerbe plays a white policeman. He did some research in Humboldt, riding around with some real policemen. They instructed him in how to make arrests.

Yaphet Kotto plays a black killer. He was standing around in Humboldt and heard a woman say to her little daughter, as she pointed to him, "Go get the nigger's autograph, honey." Kotto said it was so ludicrous he laughed. He signed: Yaphet Kotto, Nigger."

Maybe, because nothing has changed in Humboldt, that's why director William Wyler decided to shoot there. He took a big company, headed by Lee J. Cobb, Lee Majors, Roscoe Lee Browne, Barbara Hershey, Kotto and Zerbe, down to Humboldt.

Another reason Humboldt was chosen is that it is the home of Jesse Hill Ford, who wrote the novel and col-

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Most everyone likes a hot dog. So what's wrong about that?

Nothing, replies the newest member of the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council.

"But a hot dog and a cola drink don't constitute a good meal. Yet the trend is to believe that they do," observes Carl H. Krieger, a Wisconsin-born biochemist, and president of the Campbell Institute of Food Research.

"Snacking has grown so tremendously that it often takes the place of eating a well-rounded meal today. I mean the meat, potatoes and vegetable family-type meal—a balanced ration, nutritionally sound.

"Hamburgers, chicken-in-the-basket, pizzas, potato chips, popcorn all have some food value, but not enough. We need more vitamin A and vitamin C than they provide, more calcium and other nutrients. Certainly these snack foods offer variety and they are easy to eat but they lack the nutritional clout needed to keep the human body up to its maximum performance."

Also a member of the Scientific Advisory Committee of the Nutrition Foundation, Krieger is troubled about the neglect of fresh fruits and vegetables among our snacking millions.

"Most Americans can buy almost anything they may want to eat. But they need more than money. They need some nutritional knowledge to guide them," he warns, stressing again the importance of milk in the diet, especially for the young, and fruits and vegetables for everyone.

He also has doubts about the increasing use of artificial sweeteners.

"Not enough is known about the effects of cyclamates to justify their almost unlimited use. A great deal more research is necessary. Last November the National Academy of Sciences in its interim report warned that the totally unrestricted use of cyclamates is not warranted at this time," he adds.

laborated on the screenplay with Stirling Silliphant. Even though the novel is a strong antisegregation statement—and the picture will be at least as strong—Ford is tolerated in Humboldt.

"I've wondered about that," he says. He's a cheerful, sandy-haired man with a restless smile. "I think it's because they look on me as a lovable kook. I'm Dr. Davis' son-in-law, after all, and they love him.

"If a Yankee had come down south and written the same book, it would have been different. But I'm one of them, so they look on it as peculiar, but tolerable."

Once, during the shooting in Humboldt, a woman came up to him and said, "I was the original girl in your story. Of course, it was only fiction, but I was the original." He smiled at her.

Ford says that the part Cobb is playing is new to film, but old to real life. He's the leading bigot, but not a slobbery redneck—a fine, well-educated, distinguished lawyer.

"That's real," Ford says. "Bigotry couldn't exist in the South without the support of that class of men. The segs and the bigots walk around in clean suits, too. You can't tell a seg or a bigot by looking at him."

Not all the segs—segregationists—in the movie are as neatly turned out as Cobb, however. Back on the Columbia stage, I watched one scene, set in the police station. Two policemen, Zerbe and Arch Johnson, had brought in a black prisoner. He was obviously frightened—and he had cause.

Playing the prisoner was the Columbia lot's shoeshine boy, Johnny Jackson. He had a built-in frightened look which Wyler wanted.

What frightened the character was the desk sergeant, played by Chill Wills, and Wills can play a miserable bigot as well as anybody. This bigot had been given some of Ford's funniest lines—but Ford swears there are Southerners who would believe them.

Wills wanted to look at the prisoner's gums, because he held to the belief that Negroes with blue gums were capable of inflicting a poisonous bite on white men. It is a scene that is so ludicrous it is frightening, and Wyler staged it carefully.

Ford coached all the actors on their Southern accents—although Wills needed no coaching and Cobb and Zerbe both taught themselves. But even they needed Ford's help on one word which is pronounced very specially in that part of Tennessee—"nephew" is "nevo."

STITCHIN' TIME

By JUDY LOVE

Sweaters are taking off in a new design direction for fall. They're longer, skinnier, and—like the two I'm showing—styled with built-in slimming power.

The extra inches in sweater length add up to a lean look, and row after row of vertical ribbing accent the positive—a sleeker you! The ribbed columns on both sweaters are well-spaced, making them all the more dramatic and slenderizing. Tiny brass-colored buttons on one topper serve as a frame for extra rows of ribbing on the bodice. This smartly tailored pullover knits up quickly for sizes 10-18 in Columbia Minerva's Nantuk knitting yarn.

A wool and Shetland yarn is used to knit the second pullover. Its straight vertical ribbing detours at the bodice to form a lattice work pattern. Knit this trim topper in sizes 10-16.

A leaflet of knitting instructions for both sweaters is available. For your copy, send 50 cents to Stitchin' Time, c/o your local newspaper, P.O. Box 503, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to ask for leaflet S174 and include your name, address and zip code.

Knit Knacks

Dear Judy—My completed sweaters and dresses all have a small point at the two sides of the sleeve cap top. What can I do to correct this?—L.J.

Dear L.J.—Most likely those troublesome points are formed by the traditional method of binding off. Next time you reach that stage of knitting, try this:

Instead of binding off all the stitches on the last row, bind off half of them on one row and the other half on the return row. This should round off the top of the cap. Also, the ending thread will be at the exact center of the cap—which should help you fit the sleeve into the armhole.—Judy.

Longer, vertically ribbed sweaters for fall have built-in slimming power. Knitting instructions for both pullovers are available

TV NOTEBOOK

By JOAN CROSBY
NEA Entertainment Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — When Roger Smith was co-starring on the successful and long-running TV series, 77 Sunset Strip, he was so bored with acting that he admitted to driving everyone crazy by hanging around the editing room, writing scripts, poking his nose into everything concerned with behind-the-camera activity.

Today Roger can say with a serene smile that he has given up acting. He's smiling because his bored days are past. He's now a successful author and producer.

With his partner, young, chubby and likable Allan Carr, Roger has formed Rogallan Productions. Their initial film release, "The First Time," got excellent trade reviews.

Ironically, now that Roger doesn't want to act any more, he gets some fine offers. Yet, after 77 Sunset Strip went off, he found it hard to get a job. A good deal of time passed before he got his second series, Mr. Roberts.

"The only kind of acting I like now is the theater in New York," Roger said. "But I couldn't do that. It would disarrange my life and the money is not that good. My wife, Ann-Margret, is based in Hollywood and I couldn't ask her to come with me and give up her career. Besides, my three children from my first wife are on the coast and they spend every weekend with Ann-Margret and me."

Roger's company plans television specials (they did Ann-Margret's NBC special earlier this year), as well as a film version of the Broadway musical, "High Button Shoes."

For a time, Roger seriously considered giving up show business entirely, to become a crop duster. "I have never had a big enough ego for acting," he claims.

But he did a play, met Carr and his life changed. "Now every day brings a new project. It's an exciting life. It's better for my marriage because Allan runs the office and I can travel with my wife. I don't find it necessary to do any of the daredevil things I used to do, like stunting or racing on a motorcycle. And I don't take sleeping pills."

Irene Bryant is a Miss America chaperone, one of two ladies who, alternating months, escorts America's reigning beauty queen on her official duties.

Irene Bryant is also living proof that beauty queens do

THE MOTHER of a former Miss America, Mrs. Irene Bryant (right) now spends much of her time acting as mother hen for current title holder, Judith Ann Ford.

inherit mother's good looks. Attractive Irene is the mother of Debbie Bryant, the 1966 Miss America and the young lady signed to replace Bess Myerson as hostess when NBC-TV telecasts the pageant from Atlantic City on Sept. 6. (Bess is now New York City commissioner of consumer affairs.)

"I really don't know how far I have traveled," says Mrs. Bryant, "but they estimate that Miss America travels 200,000 miles a year and I'm with her half the time."

Judi Ford, the present Miss America, is the third tittist Irene has chaperoned. Last year she went to Vietnam with Debbie Barnes and she will be going again with Judi this year.

How does a mother feel when she hears her daughter announced as the winner? "Even now I think, wasn't it a miracle. It's an honor for a girl just to be chosen to represent her state in Atlantic City. When Debbie made it to the top five, I got excited. I knew she would do well if she got to speak because she has always been a whiz speaking. Besides, your own daughter is always the greatest in your eyes. It's how others see her."

Obviously Debbie and her mother have a mutual admiration society. Irene wears a Miss America gold charm bracelet. One of the charms is a crown from her daughter inscribed "The crown I share with you."

Your Gas Tank Run Over?
Buy Gas Like Cranberries

By CARLTON SMITH and RICHARD PUTNAM PRATT

We happened to be passing the service station when we saw our neighbor, Snerdly, waving his arms about and talking loudly to an attendant about "throwing cranberries on the floor."

Knowing Snerdly to be an excitable type we intervened, got him to park his car around the corner, and conducted him into a nearby health-food bar where we ordered a round of corn juice with a splash of mineral water to calm his nerves.

"What's this about cranberries?" we asked.

For a long time, Snerdly explained, he had been contending with this problem about service station attendants. They all appear to understand the instruction to "fill it up" as "run it over." After the automatic shut-off stops the pump, said Snerdly, the attendant invariably squeezes down on the handle again until he is satisfied that the tank is indeed full—the test being that one can see gas running down the side of the car.

"When the pump shuts off," said Snerdly, "my tank is full. It won't take another teacupful. I keep trying to get this across, and it's like I'm speaking Sanskrit. Back there just now, I told the attendant to fill it up, and I said, 'When the pump shuts off, it's full. Don't try to get any more in.'"

"Well, the pump clicked off, with $4.31 on the meter, and this character reaches for the handle saying, 'I'll just make it 35'—and at .33 the gas starts running down the side of the car."

"That's how cranberries got into it. In a grocery store, when the girl at the cash register says the bill comes to $4.31, nobody feels there's anything wrong with $4.31."

"Can you imagine the checkout girl scooping up some cranberries and saying, 'We'll just add enough to make your bill $4.35'—and never mind there isn't enough room in the sack for another four cents worth? Can you imagine what would happen if, every time you went through the checkout, the girl ran cranberries all over the floor and expected you to pay for them? Why, the women in the store would have the grocer lynched in five minutes."

"But that's what happens to me every time I drive in to get gas. Why? Why do they insist on that extra squeeze after the tank is full?"

Urging more corn juice on Snerdly, we explained service station economics. "Suppose a station gets 100 gas customers a day," we said, "and the attendants can squeeze out another four cents worth of gas on each sale. That adds up to $4 a day, $28 a week, or $1,456 a year."

"To you, it's only a couple of cents of wasted gas every time you drive in, but it's about $1,500 a year more in gross sales to the service station. So, naturally, they'll give it the extra squeeze."

"I guess you're right," Snerdly said resignedly. "So what's the answer?"

"When you buy cranberries," we pointed out, "you don't say, 'Fill up a sack. You ask for a pound, or for 50 cents worth. Buy gas the same way. You know what your gauge says and about how much your tank will hold. If you figure 15 gallons, tell the pump man you want 13 gallons, or $4 worth—whatever doesn't quite fill it up.'"

Snerdly brightened. "Don't know why I never thought of that. Look, from now on I'm going to save a couple of cents every time I get gas—I can afford to buy an another round of this delicious, wholesome corn juice. Waiter!"

Let 'Em Eat Cake but Not Calories

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Those who eat desserts suffer the most when trying to lose a pound or two in this weight-conscious era.

Many now can have their cake and fewer calories, too, by using lower-calorie ingredients. A mini-cal cheesecake has tart-sweet pineapple, creamy cottage cheese flavored with cranberry juice cocktail. A serving is 86 calories without a garnish of low-calorie pineapple slices and fresh strawberries. The latter push the count to 110.

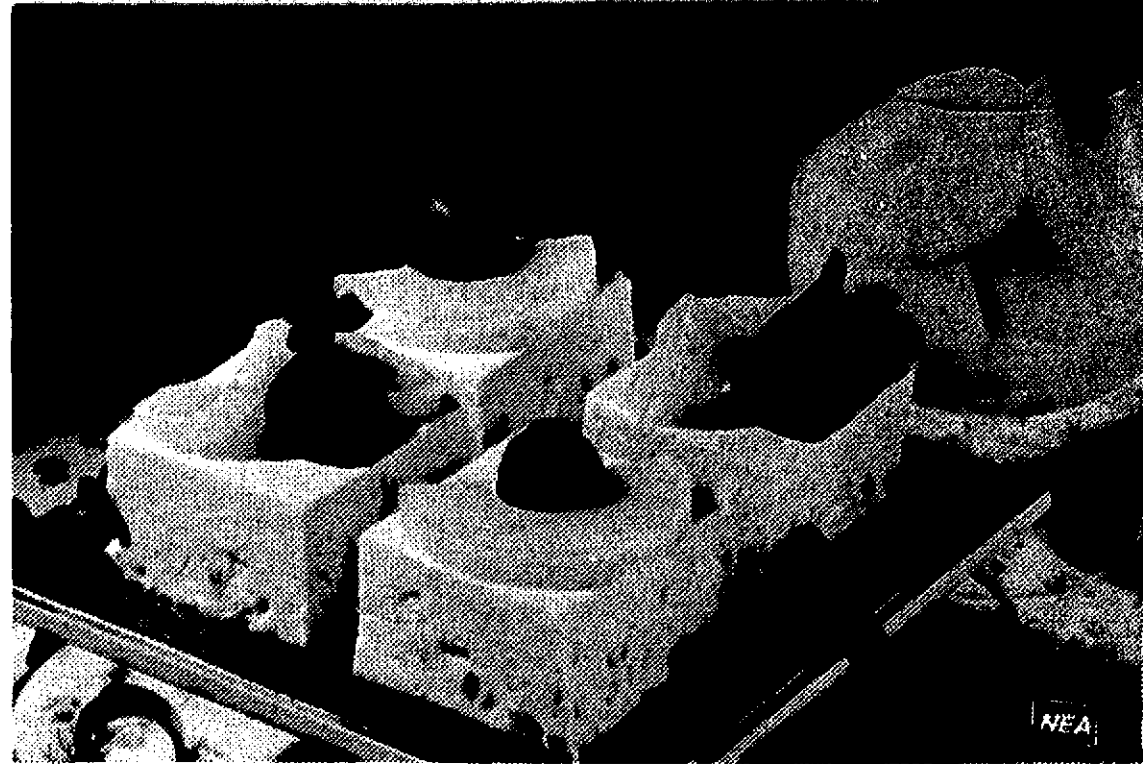

MINI-CAL PINEAPPLE
CHEESECAKE

- 1 cup small curd creamed cottage cheese
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1 cup low-calorie cranberry juice cocktail
- 1 cup low-fat pineapple yogurt

- 3 tablespoons low-calorie granulated sweetener
- 2 cans (14 1/2 oz. each) low-calorie pineapple slices, drained
- 1/2 cup evaporated milk, well chilled
- Red food coloring
- 12 strawberries

Beat cottage cheese in small bowl at high speed until very creamy. Soften gelatin in 1/4-cup cranberry juice. Bring 3/4-cup cranberry juice to boil; stir in gelatin until dissolved. Beat gelatin, yogurt and sweetener into cheese. Chop pineapple, reserving 6 slices for garnish. Beat evaporated milk at high speed until soft peaks form. Fold pineapple, whipped milk and food coloring into cheese mixture until smooth. Pour into 8x8x2-inch pan. Refrigerate until set, about 4 hours. Cut into 12 servings. Garnish with pineapple half and a strawberry. Makes 12 servings.

A Star-studded Career

in a particular area of work such as structural design, guidance and control, instrumentation, etc.

Employment opportunities for these people are expected to be favorable all through the 1970s. Continuing developments in supersonic, subsonic and vertical-lift aircraft and advancement in space and missile activities should result in a moderate increase in requirements for aerospace engineers and additional job opportunities will also arise from the need to replace engineers who transfer to other fields, retire or die.

The level of defense expenditures is an important determinant of the demand for aerospace engineers because the majority of these engineers are engaged in activities related to national defense. If defense activity should differ substantially from the level prior to the Vietnam build-up, the demand for aerospace engineers will be affected accordingly.

Average (median) annual starting salaries for engineering graduates with the bachelor's degree in the aerospace and defense industry were more than $8,450, according to a recent survey conducted by the Engineering Manpower Commission. Graduates with the master's degree and no experience usually received from $1,000 to $2,000 a year more; and salaries for graduates with the doctor's degree were generally between $11,000 and $14,500.

A bachelor's degree in engineering is the generally accepted educational requirement for entrance into engineering positions. Well-qualified college graduates with training in physics, one of the other natural sciences, or in mathematics may qualify for some beginning positions in engineering. Some persons without a degree are able to become engineers after long experience in a related occupation—such as draftsman or engineering technician—and some college-level training.

Advanced training is being emphasized for an increasing number of jobs. Graduate degrees are desirable for beginning teaching and research positions, and are helpful for advancements in most types of work. In some engineering specialties, such as nuclear engineering, training is generally available only at the graduate level.

Education leading to a bachelor's degree in engineering is offered by about 250 colleges, universities, and engineering schools located throughout the country. Although curriculums in the larger branches of engineering are offered in most schools, some of the smaller engineering specialties are taught in relatively few institutions.

Conferences with high school counselors are suggested for those contemplating an aerospace engineering career.

General information on engineering careers—including student selection and guidance, professional training and ethics, and salaries and other economic aspects of engineering—may be obtained from:

Engineers' Council for Professional Development, 345 East 47th St., New York, N.Y. 10017;

Engineering Manpower Commission, Engineers Joint Council, 345 East 47th St., New York, N.Y. 10017;

National Society of Professional Engineers, 2029 K St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

Information on engineering schools and curriculums and on training and other qualifications needed for entrance into the profession may also be obtained from the Engineers' Council for Professional Development. Information on registration of engineers may be obtained from the National Society of Professional Engineers.

In addition to the organizations listed above, other engineering societies represent the individual branches of the engineering profession. Many are listed in the following publications available in most libraries:

Engineering Societies Directory, published by Engineers Joint Council; Scientific and Technical Societies of the United States and Canada, published by the National Academy of Sciences, National Research Council.

Some engineers are members of labor unions. Information on engineering unions may be obtained from:

The American Federation of Technical Engineers (AFL-CIO), 900 F St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20004.

Horse's Ancestor

The ancestor of the modern horse, known to have lived at least as early as 3000 B.C., was about the size of a small dog, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

News of War on Various Fronts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Inquest Being Set Up in Kennedy Case

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—Dist. Atty. Edmund A. Dinis said he would meet today with Judge James A. Boyle of Edgartown District Court to set up rules for an inquest into the fatal automobile accident involving Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Dinis exercised the mandatory powers of his office under the law to call Wednesday for the inquest. Mary Jo Kopechne, 28, of Washington, D.C., a passenger in the car Kennedy was driving, drowned when it went off a bridge on Chappaquiddick Island July 18.

Kennedy heads a list of at least 24 persons who may be called to testify.

"I have made no determination on calling the senator yet," Dinis said. Kennedy has said he would "cooperate fully" if an inquest is held.

Dinis said he would press for exhumation of Miss Kopechne's body for an autopsy.

Joseph Kopechne, father of the victim, said in Berkeley Heights, N.J. Wednesday he would "welcome an inquest," but would go to court if necessary to prevent an autopsy.

Kopechne's wife, Gwen, commented:

"We just feel that an inquest is the only way the public will be satisfied."

"We want to get it over with. That is the only way to stop some of the hate mail and nasty rumors. The people want to know. They want some answers."

Stars on Currency

When a star appears on paper currency, it means that somewhere along the production line a bureau employee discovered a flaw. Imperfect bills are replaced by "star" bills carrying the same numbers.

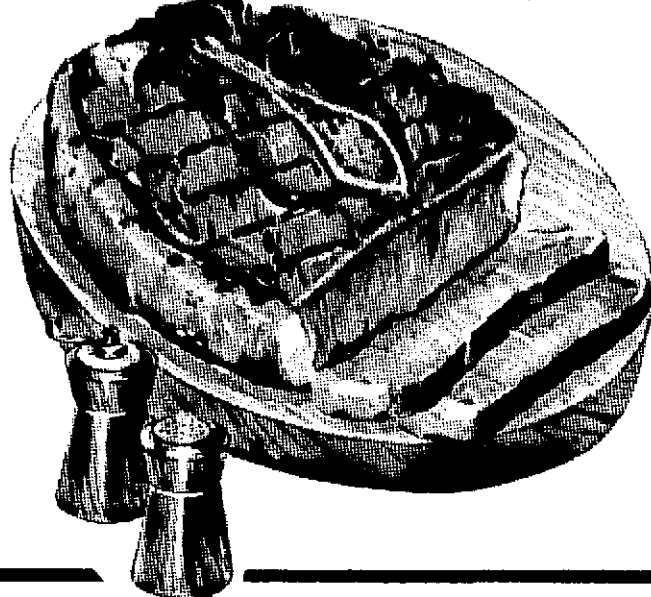

1/2 teaspoon salt
3 ripe pineapples or 3 cups canned pineapple chunks

1/2 cup chutney
1/4 cup chopped macadamia nuts
6 slices bacon, fried crisp and crumbled

Put water, onion, celery and bay leaf in a saucepan and simmer 15 minutes. Bring to a boil and add lobster tails. Cover and boil tails until they turn red. Remove lobster meat from shell and cut into chunks. Heat shrimp chow mein, following package directions. Meanwhile, cut foliage off pineapples, leaving about two inches of leaves attached to fruit. Split pineapples in half from crown to base. Scoop out, leaving a shell 1-inch thick. Cut the scooped-out meat into chunks and reserve. Melt butter in a saucepan. Add the apple and cook until mushy. Blend in flour. Stir in cream and cook while stirring, until mixture thickens. Stir in lobster chunks, curry powder, salt, shrimp chow mein and about three cups of reserved pineapple chunks. Cook over low heat for 15 minutes in saucepan. Spoon into pineapple shells. Sprinkle with chutney, chopped macadamia nuts, and crumbled bacon. Serve hot.

Have Yourself a Lulu of a Luau

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

A dockside luau is easy to prepare with the wide variety of frozen Oriental foods available. Those who want to do it in the classic Hawaiian style may bake a whole pig in a pit.

This takes hours, so why not use today's shortcuts for a fun evening. Decorate with bamboo mats, fruits and flowers and add island music and outdoor candles.

The classic pork dish starts with pork chops, baked or grilled, and topped with a sauce made from frozen sweet and sour pork, molasses and sherry. Serve a shrimp-lobster supreme in fresh pineapple boats. Here, too, the basic ingredients are from prepared frozen items. For a beverage serve a Kona punch of canned fruit punch. Add rum if preferred.

SWEET AND PUNGENT PORK CHOPS

4 to 8 pork chops
1 package (14 ounces) frozen sweet and sour pork in cooking pouch
1/2 cup light molasses
2 tablespoons sherry

Place pork chops on rack in baking pan and bake at 325 degrees one hour. Prepare sweet and sour pork and empty into a saucepan. Add molasses and sherry. Bring to a boil. Serve over baked pork chops.

SHRIMP-LOBSTER SUPREME

1 quart water
1 small onion, sliced
1 stalk celery, sliced
1 bay leaf
1 package (9 oz.) frozen

South African rock lobster tails
1 package (15 oz.) frozen shrimp chow mein in cooking pouch

1/4 cup butter
1 cooking apple, peeled and diced
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup heavy cream
1 teaspoon curry powder

Collins Faces Examination Before Trial

By LOWELL MCKIRGAN
Associated Press Writer
YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — The prosecution readied preliminary presentation of evidence against 22-year-old John N. Collins today on a charge of murdering a pretty coed.
The forenoon hearing in District Court was to determine whether Collins, a senior in elementary education at Eastern Michigan University, should be sent to trial.
His attorneys had announced in advance that they would ask the judge to transfer the hearing out of this area, where seven young women have been slain and their bodies left in the countryside since the summer of 1967.
Collins faced a pretrial examination on a first-degree murder charge in the strangulation death of an Eastern Michigan freshman, Karen Sue Beineman 19, whose nude and battered body was found July 26.
Meanwhile, Andrew J. Manuel, 25, a friend of Collins, was being held at the federal detention center in Florence, Ariz., on a charge of interstate flight to avoid prosecution in Michigan for larceny. He was arrested in Phoenix Wednesday.
Michigan authorities planned to question Manuel about the Michigan slayings, and California officials said he was wanted as a material witness in the strangulation death of a teenage Oregon girl, near Salinas in June.
Miss Beineman was last seen riding from a Ypsilanti wig shop with a young man on a motorcycle. Her body was found in a ravine north of the city.
The cases of six other girls and young women slain in the area in the past two years remain unsolved. Five of the killings were committed in the last five months.
Collins has not been charged in any of the other killings, but authorities have said he has not been eliminated as a possible suspect.
In Florence, Manuel awaits a hearing next Wednesday on the federal flight charge in connection with the alleged theft of a house trailer from a Ypsilanti rental agency.

Asks Change in ADA Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. David Pryor, D-Ark., asked the Economic Development Administration Wednesday to reverse a decision to take the Southwest Arkansas Economic Development District out of the Little Rock area of responsibility.
The decision would put the district under the responsibility of the EDA office in Marshall, Tex.

Out of the Past—
But Ever Close to a Man's Heart

Last Monday, Aug. 4, this column printed a letter from S. Dempsey Cook, Hempstead Memorial Nursing Home, recalling a day in the 1900s when the University of Arkansas played an exhibition baseball game against the Pittsburgh Pirates and their Hall of Fame star Honus Wagner. Mr. Cook's letter extolled the pitching of a Razorback from Amity named Charles Keith.

That letter started something. Roy Anderson, who played shortstop for the Hope semi-pro team in the early 1900s, told me: "If you want a real story call up Charley Tompkins at Prescott—he also pitched in that game, and he struck out Wagner. Tompkins was one of the great pitchers of this area, playing semi-pro ball, as everyone did in those days, during summer vacation from the university. 'Our Hope team played Lewisville, Nashville, Prescott and others—but we never could beat Prescott while it had Charley Tompkins around.'"

Armed with this information I telephoned Mr. Tompkins yesterday at the Prescott law office of Tompkins, McKenzie & McKee. I had no sooner mentioned the name of Honus Wagner than Mr. Tompkins drew out of his desk drawer and read me the opening paragraph of an Arkansas Gazette sports story reproduction dated April 9, 1910. It went like this:

"Long years hence, when Pitcher Tompkins of the University of Arkansas has long gray whiskers, he will gather his grandchildren about his knees and tell them how, at West End Park in Little Rock, on April 8, 1910, he struck out the mighty Hans Wagner, demon swatman of the Pittsburgh Pirates."

Mr. Tompkins told me he was sending me the complete article down to me in this morning's mail—and so he did. In return, our shop made a negative of the article and we are sending back today the original, the negative and two prints.

But best of all, Mr. Tompkins wrote a two-page letter, and here it is in full:

Dear Alex: I tried to make a photocopy of the above game, but it was so light I could hardly read it. I am therefore mailing the original account I got from the Gazette several years ago. This is truly "a voice from the past."

In the summer of 1912, I received a telegram to report to the Cincinnati Reds in Philadelphia, and I joined the team there. Hank O'Day was managing the Cincinnati Reds at that time. I was with the club for almost two months, got around the circuit, and certainly got my eyes full. I pitched a part of one game against the Chicago Cubs. I went in to pitch at the end of the Sixth Inning. Mordecai (three fingered Brown) was pitching for the Cubs and had the Reds shut out 8 to 0 at the time I went in to pitch. They got one run off me in my three innings, and the game wound up 9 to 0. O'Day would never have put me in to pitch if the game had not already been hopelessly lost. It was a common saying around the National League that all Matthewson or Brown had to do to beat the Reds was to throw out his glove toward the first base line.

Everybody with whom I came in contact while I was with the Cincinnati Club was nice to me. No old-head catcher likes to catch when some wild, "shot-gun wonder pitcher" throws wild balls into the dirt and over the head of the catcher, but Larry McLean, the Cincinnati catcher, liked me and ran fouls like a deer trying to take care of me. He picked one foul ball off the stand and cracked his head against an iron beam and was out cold for half an hour.

O'Day told me "kid, you have some ability and a whole of a fast ball, but you are shy of control and cannot win the big league at the present time." You may make a real pitcher, but you are going to have to get two or three years minor league experience, developed control and learn how to pitch.

I wanted to play professional ball, but I was just out of Wash-

Mass Transit Bill Goes to Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proposed to Congress today a $10-billion, 12-year attack on the problem of improving and expanding local bus, rail and subway transportation.

The money would be used to help both public and private efforts to provide better service.

Nixon noted in a message to the House and Senate that there is a magnificent federal aid highway system, but that about one fourth of the population lacks access to a car.

"Moreover," he said, "until we make public transportation an attractive alternative to private car use, we will never be able to build highways fast enough to avoid congestion. As we survey the increasing congestion of our roads and strangulation of our cities today we can imagine what our plight will be when our urban population adds 100 million by the year 2000."

Specifically, Nixon called on Congress to establish a program authorizing $3.1 billion for the first five years of the 12-year span. This would begin with $300 million the first year and climb to $1 billion annually by 1975. He said he also wanted renewal of this authority every two years so that outstanding contract authorization never would be for a shorter period than three years.

Over the 12-year stretch, $500 million would go for research and development. The rest of the $10 billion would be for capital investments.

"The program which I am recommending," he amplified, "would help to replace, improve and expand local bus, rail and subway systems. It would help to develop and modernize subway tracks, stations and terminals; it would help to build and improve rail train tracks and stations, new bus terminals and garages."

"The program would authorize systems to private as well as public transit systems so that private enterprise can continue to provide public services in urban transportation."

To Stay at Sea Until Fight Ends

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — With floral wreaths floating behind, Floyd B. Nelson set sail in an 18-foot sloop determined to stay at sea "until the killing is stopped in Vietnam."

Flowers were tossed by his fellow members of the Peace Action Council who gathered at the shore Wednesday, the anniversary of the atomic attack on Hiroshima.

Nelson, departing in his "Teak Lady" with its sails emblazoned with peace symbols, said he will sail up and down the Southern California coastline until the war is over. Friends will bring him food via rowboat.

Ington and Lee University Law School and my father wanted me to come into his law office. I was disappointed with my showing and several rascals, one of whom lived in Hope, were trying to marry my girl. After mature deliberation, I decided the smart thing for me to do was to forget baseball and marry the girl of my choice. It came near killing Earl Braswell when I quit baseball. We were great friends and he was sure I would make the big league. I have never had reason to regret my decision to give up baseball. I might have made a baseball pitcher—several boys with whom I played in the minor league and whose records went no better than mine, went to the big league, and did become winners. I seriously doubt that I would have ever made a big league pitcher. I was the typical shotgun wonder, "wild as a hawk, and green as a gourd" about big league pitching. Major league batters do not help wild young pitchers by swinging at wild pitches. They simply let such wild pitchers "walk" themselves out of the big league. This is what happened to me.

With kindest regards, I am Yours truly,

Doesn't Think Missile Defense System Will Ever Be Deployed

REP. TALBOT FEILD, JR.

Representative Talbot Feild, Jr., will be the principal speaker at the third graduation exercise at Red River Vocational Technical School. Mr. Feild will speak to the 128 students who are candidates for proficiency or attendance certificates at 2 p.m., Sunday, August 10, in the Commons Room of the school.

The 1968-69 enrollment has been at an all-time high and prospects for 1969-71 are even greater.

The public is invited to attend the ceremonies and tour the facilities after graduation, according to J.W. Rowe, Director of the school.

Just Possible Release Was Too Soon

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Billy Frank Gross, 32, was detained by police Wednesday at the request of the state Pardons and Paroles Board while the board checked to see if it released Gross from prison too soon.

Gross last year was sentenced to 21 years on conviction of second-degree murder in the Sept. 29, 1964, death of Frank Birch in Conway County. Circuit Court Judge Henry B. Means ordered that Gross serve a third of the term before being eligible for parole.

Gross was paroled July 5. Bob Scott, formerly Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's aide for prison affairs, said Means would be asked to clarify his requirement in the Gross case. Scott said the board apparently computed Gross' time served beginning with March 1964, when Gross began serving a life sentence in an earlier conviction in the Birch death. The state Supreme Court has overturned that earlier conviction. Scott said Gross also was credited with 11 months and 21 days off of his sentence for good behavior.

Figures a Home Should Be a Home and Not a Two-Bathroom Zoo

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — A home should be a home and not a zoo. But at present I'm running probably the only two-bathroom menagerie in town, and what I need most is an assistant tame animal trainer. The job is wearing me down.

My predicament came about in this manner: Back in 1958 my late wife Frances adopted a black-and-white alley kitten named Lady Dottie on the grounds that our 5-year-old daughter Tracy needed a pet as a companion in order to avoid stunting her emotional growth.

Lady Dottie's gravel box was promptly installed in the front bathroom of our apartment, the one place in the world where until then I could enjoy some privacy.

"Why?" I whined. "Where else could we put her box?" demanded Frances practically.

So for 11 years I've been getting to work late because I can't get into the bathroom until the cat finishes her morning ablutions, so to speak.

This year, when school let out in June, Tracy came home lugging a box containing a giant, red-eyed, white rabbit named Aphrodite.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's Safeguard antiballistic missile (ABM) defense system won a third Senate test today. Its backers defeated, 70 to 27, an effort to bar deployment of the system while permitting installation of its radars and computers.

The vote, coming on top of two dramatic votes Wednesday, sealed the verdict for the current round on the ABM and today. Its backers defeated, 70 to 27, an effort to bar deployment of the system's missiles while permitting installation of its radars and computers.

The vote, coming on top of two dramatic votes Wednesday, sealed the verdict for the current round on the ABM and today. Its backers defeated, 70 to 27, an effort to bar deployment of the system's missiles while permitting installation of its radars and computers.

Rejected was an amendment by Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., put forth as an effort to compromise the Senate's basic ABM split but scorned by both sides during the long debate.

Another opponent, Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said "I seriously doubt that Safeguard will ever be deployed."

And Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., one of the leaders of the anti-Safeguard forces, said he doubts the Pentagon expects to be able to deploy Safeguard soon.

Cooper told reporters the Pentagon plans to spend $120 million this year on advanced antiballistic missile—ABM—research, beyond Safeguard, although the sum is not mentioned in the report on the legislation currently before the Senate.

The decisive ABM votes, after months of controversy and weeks of debate, came Wednesday on two somewhat similar amendments aimed at barring deployment of the Safeguard system but continuing ABM research.

Nome Plans to Sue for Taxes

NOME, Alaska (AP) — The city of Nome announced Wednesday its intention to sue the state of Alaska for unpaid real property taxes.

City Manager Ed Giotfelty said the state is in arrears $8,800 in real property taxes on the North Star Hotel.

The hotel had received a loan from the Alaska Development Corp. and the ADC foreclosed. The hotel carries an assessed valuation of $402,000.

One of the students didn't keep Aphrodite over the summer she'd have to be put to sleep, ever," explained Tracy. "I couldn't stand for that to happen."

"Where are you going to put her?" I asked. "In our back bathroom." "Why?" I whined, as I had 11 years before.

"Because Lady Dottie has the front bathroom," explained Tracy, as if she were speaking to a retarded adult. "Everyone knows that cats and rabbits don't like to share the same bathroom."

Soon after Aphrodite was installed, Tracy Blithely took off on a vacation trip to Rome, leaving me the task of providing food and maintaining law and order in our two-bathroom menagerie.

It is quite a chore, and I am getting red-eyed myself taking care of a red-eyed rabbit and a green-eyed cat.

Aphrodite seems to be in love with Lady Dottie, but Lady Dottie is jealous and hates the very floor the rabbit hops upon. By day she is also somewhat afraid of the big white rabbit, but at night she paws endlessly at the

Nixon Asked for Stand on Desegregation

By G. C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Liberal Republican senators are expected to press the administration to take a clear stand against a House-passed rider which would restrict the government's efforts to bring school desegregation.

Capitol Hill sources say these senators are angry over reports that Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell dictated a hands-off administration position when the House passed the rider by a narrow 17-vote margin. Some congressmen think the outcome would have been different if the rider had been opposed by the administration.

Shaping up is a civil rights test perhaps as crucial for the Nixon administration as the recent controversy over revised school desegregation guidelines. Civil rights leaders have criticized the President's new emphasis on court-ordered plans as a step backward from strong antidiscrimination enforcement.

The new issue is an amendment sponsored by Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., and strongly supported by southerners in Congress. It would stop the government from assisting the school districts in the busing of pupils, closing of buildings, or assignment of students against parental wishes to achieve desegregation.

Its effect would be to legalize freedom-of-choice desegregation plans, which the courts have ruled unacceptable unless they speed integration.

If enacted into law, the amendment would limit the government's most powerful weapon against school discrimination: the cutoff of aid funds to school districts that refuse to desegregate.

Sources within the government and on Capitol Hill say Robert H. Finch, secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, was ready to take a strong public stand against the Whitten amendment on the eve of the House vote last week.

Mitchell was asked to sign the statement because the Justice Department shares responsibility for desegregation policy with HEW. But Mitchell refused to sign or allow the release of the Finch statement, the sources said. Mitchell then met secretly with House Republican leaders on the day of the vote and urged a hands-off position, the sources added.

"It was strictly a political decision that it was wiser to keep a closed mouth," said one Capitol Hill Republican aide.

Allied Buys Oklahoma Phone Firms

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Allied Telephone Co. of Little Rock said Wednesday it would buy outstanding capital stock in an investment company and four independent telephone companies.

Allied President H. R. Willbourn Jr. said the acquisition adds almost 10,000 stations to Allied's 50,000-station telephone system.

The companies being purchased are Holt Telephone Co. Inc. of Poteau, Okla., Vian Telephone Co. of Vian, Okla., Stillwell Telephone Corp. of Stillwell, Okla., Milan Telephone Co. of Milan, Mo., and the J. W. Holt Investment Co. of Oklahoma City.

The Holt family owns and operates two community antenna television systems, plus the land, buildings and rolling stock of the four telephone firms.

Identity of Man Sought

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Authorities today were checking to learn the identity of a man killed Wednesday when fire destroyed a house in Little Rock.

Dr. L. Gordon Holt, Pulaski County coroner, said fingerprints of the man would be checked through the Little Rock Police Department and the FBI.

Cause of the fire was not known.

Sponsors of Massive Tax Reform Bill See Quick House Passage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of a massive tax reform and relief bill predicted it "will get votes like motherhood" as the House headed toward voting on the legislation.

In debate members have criticized individual provisions, but there has been little indication of votes against the over-all measure—which is not open to amendment except by the Ways and Means Committee.

"It will get votes like motherhood," Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., a Ways and Means member, told newsmen. "Who can vote against giving everybody at least a 5 per cent tax cut?"

The vote to send the bill to the Senate was expected late today. A 256-145 procedural vote Wednesday killed any chance of opening up the bill to general amendments. This scuttled the plan of some members to try to knock out a provision extending the income surtax at 5 per cent for the first six months of 1970.

The Ways and Means Committee had two amendments considered certain of adoption. One puts into effect its last-minute change in the bill to make tax rate reductions it says will insure a 5 per cent cut-off.

The other changes the method of calculating depletion on oil shale. The effect is to encourage ultimate production of oil from shale, still in pilot stage.

During Tuesday's debate, several members from oil producing states criticized the bill's provision to cut the oil depletion allowance.

But it was George Bush, R-Tex., who led off the discussion, said he is "over-all for the legislation."

The fight over oil depletion is considered certain to be renewed in the Senate.

Bush said he thinks in this area, "the committee went too far."

Defenders of the depletion allowance say it is needed to encourage exploration for more petroleum reserves.

Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., said he is concerned that "some of the provisions on oil may be damaging not only to the oil industry, but the general economy of the country."

Boulder City Getting Bolder

BOULDER CITY, Nev. (AP) — Boulder City is getting bolder about booze.

The City Council Wednesday set Sept. 8 as the day liquor can be purchased, both in bars and stores, for the first time in this community of 5,000.

The decision was made in an election May 6 and passed by only 63 votes.

Colleen Coffee, daughter of Mrs. Trula Coffee of Hope, was recently selected to play Ensign Nellie Forbush in Shreveport's Port Players' summer musical production of "South Pacific."

Miss Coffee has been active in the Shreveport Little Theatre where she was seen in "The Gazebo," "Little Mary Sunshine" and "Leave It To Jane." She did technical work on "The Tall Story" and "Summer and Smoke." She sang in the chorus of two productions—"The Merry Widow" and "Guys and Dolls" and did technical work on "Peter Pan." Her recent Port Player roles have been in "Laura," "Oliver" and "Harvey."

There will be a country music jamboree Saturday, August 9, at 8 p.m. in the Patmos School auditorium. Special guests will be the "Village Idiots" from Murfreesboro. The public is invited. No admission.

Two Explorers from post 91, sponsored by the First United Methodist Church in Hope have arrived at Philmont Scout Ranch and Explorer Base, the national camping area of the Boy Scouts.

..Dick Overturf and Mark Gunter are now in training at the "University of the Great Outdoors" for their 12-day high adventure expedition. A Philmont ranger will instruct them in wilderness cookery, backpacking, hiking techniques and uses of a compass and map. After three days with their ranger, the expedition will continue following mountain trails on the ranch under their own adult leader, Josh Morris of Texarkana.

Becky Waller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will E. Waller, is working in Thailand (SE Asia) as a secretary to a firm out of Los Angeles that is under contract to the U.S. Army. She likes her work, the country, and the many friends she has made at an International Club there.

Hope Cheerleaders won another first place award in competition after placing fourth Tuesday at the Southern Methodist University National Training School. In addition to the first place award they won the coveted "Spirit Stick," an award given to the group displaying the most spirit and enthusiasm.

William J. Schooley of Rt. 1, Hope, has been chosen to serve as a member of the Hempstead County Farmers Home Administration Committee, FHA Supervisor announced. He succeeds Garland Kidd whose three year term expired June 30. The other members are Joseph Whitmore of Rt. 1, Ozan and Eldredge Formby of Patmos Rt. 1. ## Sensational Cong Attack on U.S. Base

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong staged two sensational attacks today, penetrating the supposedly secure U.S. base at Cam Ranh bay, hurling bombs and firing rifles at hospital patients, and setting off a bomb in front of an American-run language school in Saigon. Casualties were heavy in both areas.

The U.S. Command said two Americans were killed and 67 wounded as the Viet Cong rampaged through a block-long Army convalescent hospital in Cam Ranh Bay, 195 miles north-east of Saigon. All except four of the wounded were patients. The four were members of the hospital staff. The Viet Cong did not lose a man.

Military spokesmen said Viet Cong terrorists set off a 60-pound bomb in front of the language school in Saigon, killing eight Vietnamese and wounding 62, including 23 U.S. Air Force men. Three of the Americans were hospitalized.

The dead were five civilians and three soldiers. Of the wounded, 30 were Vietnamese soldiers, six were Vietnamese civilians and three were Thai soldiers.

Damage to buildings was heavy in both attacks. Associated Press Writer Rick Merron reported from Cam Ranh Bay that more than a dozen buildings were destroyed or damaged, including several wards, two officers barracks and the chapel.

In Saigon, a spokesman said the school was 30 per cent destroyed and 14 other buildings were heavily damaged or destroyed. It was the first serious terrorist attack in Saigon since June 25, when a bomb wrecked a government postal substation.

The spokesman reported the escaping terrorists planted bombs by traps wrapped in pink paper and at least one other bomb in the neighborhood but all failed to explode.

Cam Ranh Bay was considered the most secure of all U.S. bases in Vietnam, and the attack caught the Americans by surprise.

High School Book Store Opens Aug. 25

The Hope High School Bookstore will open Monday, August 25, at 9 a.m. and will close at 3 p.m. each day. The bookstore will be operated this year in the science building adjacent to the high school building. There will be no new books for grade 10. Grade 11 will have new books in Earth Science, Fundamental Math and Intermediate Algebra.

Grade 12 will have only one new book, that is, General Business.

Students are urged to buy their books from other students as the new books are expensive.

The bookstore will buy only those used books that are in good condition.

The bookstore will not assume any responsibility for providing books for students who do not purchase books before 3 p.m. Friday, August 29, 1969.

WR Wants to Help Forrest City Adjust

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, urging the use of reason and logic, said Wednesday he soon would go to Forrest City to help try to solve the city's racial problems.

The governor also noted a proposed "poor people's" march is due to begin Aug. 20 in West Memphis and reach Little Rock Aug. 24. He called the march "cheap and dangerous theatrics."

The Rev. Cato Brooks of Forrest City is the chief planner of the march. He failed to show up, although he was invited to the meeting at which Rockefeller spoke Wednesday.

At the meeting, however, were about 40 persons representing many elements in Forrest City.
